WILL NEED $5,000,000 FOR HURRICANE VICTIMS

RED CROSS ADDRESSES APPEAL TO ALL AMERICA

TO ASSIST 400,000 DESTITUTE PEOPLE IN PORTO RICO

15,000 FAMILIES IN FLORIDA, MANY IN VIRGIN ISLANDS

Washington, Sept. 21.—(UP) — Red Cross officials appealed today for a minimum of $5,000,000 with which to assist 400,000 destitute hurricane victims in Porto Rico, 15,000 families in Florida and an undetermined number in the Virgin Islands.

Reports from Red Cross relief workers indicated higher death lists and the threat of epidemics in the storm area.

Bodies lay on Florida roadsides awaiting burial today while a chain of trucks bore caskets to the devastated areas and returned to West Palm Beach with bodies.

A. L. Schaefer, Red Cross disaster relief worker in Florida, reported to national headquarters here the death list of 422 in the southern and northern shores of Lake Okeechobee "undoubtedly will be increased."

Typhoid, measles, influenza and malaria are prevalent among the thousands of destitute homeless Porto Ricans who are subsisting on unripe fruit, Mabbit K. Reckford, associate director of Red Cross relief in Porto Rico, reported to national headquarters today.

Reports indicated the Porto Rican conditions were more acute than first reported. Babies and children were the worst sufferers.

Governor Towner of Porto Rico reported to the war department today that the death list there had risen to 156. Almost half of the municipalities of Porto Rico had been unheard from when this figure was made public. Towner said there had been no reports of American teachers employed in Porto Rican schools.

After a survey of the southeastern shore area of Lake Okeechobee where the death list previously had been estimated at approximately 400, Red Cross officials said this figure would be increased. Miss Helen Colwell, Red Cross worker at Okeechobee City on the northern shore of the lake, reported 22 known dead and 17 missing.

A special factory in West Palm Beach worked all night making caskets in which to place the bodies under ground. Supplies of caskets, however, still were insufficient and bodies recovered from the lake and from the debris of wrecked houses, lay along the roadsides awaiting truck loads of coffins.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 21. —As relief units worked to prevent epidemics among huricane refugees, the death toll of the storm was placed today at 860 lives.

The new total was known in a statement from A. L. Schafer, representative of the national Red Cross, and increased the former official estimates by sixty.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 21. —Rising water from heavy rains had cut off the Everglades section of the hurricane area today temporarily interrupting search for bodies. Boats were to go in as soon as possible.

A. L. Schafer, director for the national Red Cross, said he considered the local committee estimate of from 700 to 800 deaths in the county as a "fair one." Many bodies will never be found, he predicted.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 21.— While reports on the casualties in the tropical hurricane are yet to be received from more than half of the municipalities, officials here are certain that the death toll will not reach 1,000.

They say, however, that the property damage has not been exaggerated and that it will run into millions. There has been no reason for revising the previous estimate that there are 700,000 persons homeless.

Gov. Horace M. Towner has received reports from 30 of the 77 municipalities and on the basis of that data he has estimated that there are 106 dead, 300 injured and 23 missing.

Relief work and rehabilitation plans went forward rapidly today after the arrival of aid from the United States.

HOOVER LEADS SMITH IN 1ST STATE RETURNS

LITERARY DIGEST SHOWS THAT HOOVER IS GAINING DEMOCRAT VOTES IN MARYLAND

PUBLICATION STARTS 19,000,000-BALLOT "STRAW" POLL FOR PRESIDENT

Hoover is ahead of Smith in the first scattering returns of the Literary Digest's 19,000,000-ballot nationwide "straw" poll for president.

Of the 32,350 ballots returned Hoover has 21,756 votes and Smith has 10,222 votes making a percentage of 67.3 of the total for the republican candidate as against 31.6 for the democratic leader. The other 2.1 per cent of the votes are divided among the three minor candidates.

An analysis of "how the same voters voted in 1924" shows that Smith receives over 43 per cent of his strength in these first returns from those who voted for Coolidge four years ago, while only 35 per cent of his total poll comes from democratic voters in the last presidential election.

The same tabulation shows Hoover obtaining more than 73 per cent of his total votes from republican voters of 1924 with a gain of only 11 per cent from hte democratic ranks.

A startling local shift in party lines is indicated in the few early returns from Wisconsin comprising some 4,500 votes which show that over one-half of the democratic vote in that state is coming from former republicans. Likewise, in New Jersey, over 50 per cent of the Smith vote appears to be drawn from voters who voted the Coolidge ticket in 1924 whereas Hoover captures less than 10 per cent of former democratic adherents.

The switch of votes is somewhat reversed in Maryland, on the face of the early returns, as Hoover receives over 32 per cent of his votes from former democratic voters while Smith gets only 22 per cent from the republicans.

A state by state tabulation, stated as being far from complete, shows California voting Hoover 441, Smith, 206; Maryland: Hovoer, 867, Smith, 105; Nebraska: Hoover, 2,340, Smith 1,136; New Jersey: Hoover, 15,420, Smith, 6,586; Wisconsin: Hoover, 2,688, Smith, 1,815.

"This is, of course, a far greater preponderance in favor of the republican candidate than any previous sectional polls." The Literary Digest states editorially, 'or' even than all but the most optimistic republican prophets have dared to claim. For a number of reasons, it would be premature to consider these figures indicative of the final results of The Literary Digest's poll.

"In our 1924 poll, the republican candidate began with a lead of more than four to one over his democratic rival. The present poll starts with practically the same proportion of votes, two to one in favor of the republicans, with which our 1924 poll ended, and it remains to be seen whether the democrats can increase their percentage as substantially as they did in the course of the last poll. Such an increase would indicate a very close election."

Attention is called to the fact that the southern states are not represented in the first figures that are published in The Literary Digest today. It is also pointed out that New York state, "admittedly the most important battle-ground of the present election," has not been heard from at this time.

The Literary Digest stresses the fact that the presidential poll conducted by the magazine in 1924 evidenced an average error of less than 5 per cent by comparison with the official election returns, "while its correspondence with the vote of the electorial college was 99 per cent correct."

Hoover to Take No Recognition Personally Of Smith Attacks Upon His Campaign Platform

HOOVER WILL KEEP ON WITH QUIET CAMPAIGN

ANSWERS TO SMITH TO BE MADE BY IMPORTANT REPUBLICAN ORATORS

ALSO BY CHAIRMAN WORK OF THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 21. — Herbert Hoover intends to take no recognition personally of the attacks made upon his campaign platform by Gov. Alfred E. Smith in his western tour, the United Press was informed officially today.

The answers which will be made to Smith will be delivered by the important republican orators and by Chairman Hubert Work of the national committee. Hoover will continue with the quiet plan of campaign he already has marked out for himself, no matter what the contesting nominee says, according to the announcement.

This course of action was decided upon by the inner council after Smith's farm speech in Omaha, which mentioned Hoover by name and purported to quote from some of Hoover's speeches.

Hoover has been conducting his campaign as if Smith did not exist. He has never mentioned Smith's name and has referred to the democratic partly only in general terms, never directly levying an attack upon either the opposing candidate or the party. It is his intention to sell his constructive policies to the voters rather than shoot at his opponents. The shooting will be attended to by the campaign managers but the fact that Hoover is not involved in it will not lessen its intensity.

A lull has developed around the candidate's headquarters. His decentralization policy has enabled state organizations to function without consulting him and the result is that he has little to do.

Hoover started to work yesterday on his Elizabethton speech to be delivered Oct. 6. He had no important callers scheduled for today.

SMITH SCORES 'WHISPERING TALK' IN THE CAMPAIGN

DEMOCRATS CLAIM HIS OKLAHOMA SPEECH ENHANCES HIS CHANCES

OTHER OBSERVERS CLAIM THE ADDRESS WILL CHANGE FEW VOTES

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 21.— Governor Alfred E. Smith began and closed the "whispering campaign" chapter in his battle for the presidency here in Oklahoma where the religious issue admittedly is a strong factor.

Democratic and republican leaders today set about measuring the effect of Smith's denunciation of the whispering campaign as "treasonable" and "un-American" upon the political complexion of this state in November.

Democrats claimed it enhanced his chances greatly in this state. They said his boldness in bringing the issue into the open would clear the atmosphere.

Some observers claimed that Smith's speech, while a bold and characteristic move, would change few votes.

Smith's speech was well received. It was interrupted repeatedly by cheering. His first mention of the Ku Klux Klan, which once dominated Oklahoma politics, was received with silence, but Dr. John Roach Straton, Calvary Baptist minister of New York City, who is campaigning in this state against Smith, also was on the platform. He listened quietly to Smith's speech but will speak in the Coliseum today.

The speech was a climax to a day of demonstration for the democratic candidate by throngs of democrats who had gathered from all parts of the state. The town had the carnival atmosphere.

Launching into a discussion of the religious issue in connection with his broadside against the whispering campaign the governor declared that "if any Catholic in this country believes that the welfare, the well-being, the prosperity, the growth and the expansion of the United States is best conserved and best promoted by the election of Hoover, I want him to vote for Hoover and not for me.

The "whispering campaign," the democratic candidate said, "discloses such activity" on the part of its promoters "as to constitute a large part of this form of compaign, if they have not actually promoted it."

Calling religious intolerance un-American and out of line with the nation's traditions, the governor said, "I here and now drag these baseless slanders into the open and denounce them as a treasonable attack upon the very foundation of American liberty."

Attacking the opposition of former Senator Robert L. Owen, a democrat of Oklahoma, who had refused to support Smith because of his "affiliation with Tammany Hall," the governor early in his speech shouted, "I challenge Senator Owen, or anybody he can get, to come to New York and find anything wrong in my record."

"But Senator Owen is not sincere," Smith said. "They know that this Tammany cry is an attempt to drag a red herring across the trail.

In quoting his record as governor, Smith cited support of measures designed to aid agriculture and to bring about water power development.

"I smile when I hear it said that 'Gov. Smith knows nothing about the farm; he's a city man'," the speaker said. "Although a city man, I can say to you without fear of contradiction that I did more for agriculture and for its promotion in the state of New York than any governor in recent history."

EMILIO PORTES GIL IS AT PRESENT MEXICAN SECRETARY OF INTERIOR

Mexico City, Sept. 21.—(UP) — Emilio Portes Gil, secretary of the interior, probably will be named provisional president of Mexico on the first ballot at a joint session of congress next Monday or Tuesday.

Uncertainty over choice of a successor to President Calles for the 14 months before the presidential election in November, 1929, appeared ended today. At a meeting of the senate, 42 members out of a total of 58, agreed unanimously to support Portes Gil. A committee was named to advise President Calles accordingly.

While the chamber of deputies is in recess and unable to act, statements of leaders indicated that a majority favors Portes Gil.

Portes Gil is regarded as in sympathy with President Calles' stand on religion and his attitude toward the United States.

Democratic and republican leaders today set about measuring the effect of Smith's denunciation of the whispering campaign as "treasonable" and "un-American" upon the political complexion of this state in November.

Democrats claimed it enhanced his chances greatly in this state. They said his boldness in bringing the issue into the open would clear the atmosphere.

Some observers claimed that Smith's speech, while a bold and characteristic move, would change few votes.

Smith's speech was well received. It was interrupted repeatedly by cheering. His first mention of the Ku Klux Klan, which once dominated Oklahoma politics, was received with silence, but Dr. John Roach Straton, Calvary Baptist minister of New York City, who is campaigning in this state against Smith, also was on the platform. He listened quietly to Smith's speech but will speak in the Coliseum today.

The speech was a climax to a day of demonstration for the democratic candidate by throngs of democrats who had gathered from all parts of the state. The town had the carnival atmosphere.

Launching into a discussion of the religious issue in connection with his broadside against the whispering campaign the governor declared that "if any Catholic in this country believes that the welfare, the well-being, the prosperity, the growth and the expansion of the United States is best conserved and best promoted by the election of Hoover, I want him to vote for Hoover and not for me.

The "whispering campaign," the democratic candidate said, "discloses such activity" on the part of its promoters "as to constitute a large part of this form of compaign, if they have not actually promoted it."

Calling religious intolerance un-American and out of line with the nation's traditions, the governor said, "I here and now drag these baseless slanders into the open and denounce them as a treasonable attack upon the very foundation of American liberty."

Attacking the opposition of former Senator Robert L. Owen, a democrat of Oklahoma, who had refused to support Smith because of his "affiliation with Tammany Hall," the governor early in his speech shouted, "I challenge Senator Owen, or anybody he can get, to come to New York and find anything wrong in my record."

"But Senator Owen is not sincere," Smith said. "They know that this Tammany cry is an attempt to drag a red herring across the trail.

In quoting his record as governor, Smith cited support of measures designed to aid agriculture and to bring about water power development.

"I smile when I hear it said that 'Gov. Smith knows nothing about the farm; he's a city man'," the speaker said. "Although a city man, I can say to you without fear of contradiction that I did more for agriculture and for its promotion in the state of New York than any governor in recent history."

EMILIO PORTES GIL IS AT PRESENT MEXICAN SECRETARY OF INTERIOR

Mexico City, Sept. 21.—(UP) — Emilio Portes Gil, secretary of the interior, probably will be named provisional president of Mexico on the first ballot at a joint session of congress next Monday or Tuesday.

Uncertainty over choice of a successor to President Calles for the 14 months before the presidential election in November, 1929, appeared ended today. At a meeting of the senate, 42 members out of a total of 58, agreed unanimously to support Portes Gil. A committee was named to advise President Calles accordingly.

While the chamber of deputies is in recess and unable to act, statements of leaders indicated that a majority favors Portes Gil.

Portes Gil is regarded as in sympathy with President Calles' stand on religion and his attitude toward the United States.

Thinning Is Important Operation With Apples

An apple crop of 1,500,000 barrels is in prospect for this year, compared with 800,000 bushels in 1927, and growers should thin apples so that none but the highest quality will reach the market, according to R. S. Marsh, University of Illinois. Apple growers of the Northwest who produce the fancy ten-cent apples consider thinning an important operation in the growing of fruit.

"Thinning varieties of apple so that only one fruit is left on each spur is a standard Middle Western recommendation," he says. "Apples of varieties like Northwestern Greening and Wolf River get big enough without thinning. Yellow Transparent, Dutchess, Jonathan, Delicious, Grimes, Ben Davis, Gano, Winesap and others are varieties that respond profitably, through size increase, to thinning."

Find Harmful Worms on Several of Bush Fruits

Currant worms damage currants and gooseberries, according to information which has been collected by R. S. Herrick of the Iowa Horticultural society. These worms injure the crop by eating the leaves on the bushes, thereby causing the berries to be small due to lack of proper nourishment. Where these worms are present, spray the bushes with a solution of one-half ounce of lead arsenate per gallon of water. If there is mildew on the leaves, one ounce of dry lime-sulphur should also be added.

Agricultural Hints

If you raise your pigs on clean ground there won't be any runts.

• • •

Many successful pig producers add tankage or linseed meal to the mineral mixture to make it more palatable to the growing pigs.

• • •

The soy bean is a legume, obtaining its nitrogen from the air by means of nodules on the roots, but the bacteria forming these nodules are not normally present in our soils.

• • •

Soy beans prefer soils which are in good tilth and well supplied with organic matter and moisture, but they will make very good growth on sandy or poor soils, if fertilizer is used and the soil is not too acid. The crop responds to lime, but is fairly tolerant of acid soils.

A NEW VICTORY SIX BY DODGE BROTHERS

SMARTER, ROOMIER, MORE COMFORTABLE

With Famed Victory Performance Made Still More Brilliant

Striking improvements in beauty, comfort and roominess, set Dodge Brothers new Victory Six apart as a distinctive and impressively attractive motor car.

Seat dimensions are more generous; cushions deeper and more luxurious; doors higher and wider; and passenger vision materially increased.

New Victory lines sweep gracefully forward to a radiator that expresses new ruggedness and power; and improved fenders further accentuate the vigorous and arresting charm of Victory Six design.

Moreover, new Victory Six construction insures many unique and vital advantages.

The wide Victory chassis frame, flush with the body lines, provides a foundation for the body—which is directly mounted without sills. This remarkable construction lowers the all-important center of gravity, increases the head room, and eliminates the customary body overhang.

And as a consequence, the new Victory grips the road at the curves, travels rough pavement with incredible smoothness, obeys the four-wheel brakes instantly—yet with no discomfort to passengers. And provides a quality of pick-up, flexibility and fast flashing action that we urge you most earnestly to investigate.

ALSO DODGE BROTHERS STANDARD SIX $895

Greater beauty, comfort and convenience with speed, get-away, smoothness and dependability more remarkable than ever. Four fashionable body styles fully equipped.

Many successful pig producers add tankage or linseed meal to the mineral mixture to make it more palatable to the growing pigs.

The soy bean is a legume, obtaining its nitrogen from the air by means of nodules on the roots, but the bacteria forming these nodules are not normally present in our soils.

* * *

Soy beans prefer soils which are in good tilth and well supplied with organic matter and moisture, but they will make very good growth on sandy or poor soils, if fertilizer is used and the soil is not too acid. The crop responds to lime, but is fairly tolerant of acid soils.

A NEW VICTORY SIX BY DODGE BROTHERS

SMARTER, ROOMIER, MORE COMFORTABLE

With Famed Victory Performance Made Still More Brilliant

Striking improvements in beauty, comfort and roominess, set Dodge Brothers new Victory Six apart as a distinctive and impressively attractive motor car.

Seat dimensions are more generous; cushions deeper and more luxurious; doors higher and wider; and passenger vision materially increased.

New Victory lines sweep gracefully forward to a radiator that expresses new ruggedness and power; and improved fenders further accentuate the vigorous and arresting charm of Victory Six design.

Moreover, new Victory Six construction insures many unique and vital advantages.

The wide Victory chassis frame, flush with the body lines, provides a foundation for the body—which is directly mounted without sills. This remarkable construction lowers the all-important center of gravity, increases the head room, and eliminates the customary body overhang.

And as a consequence, the new Victory grips the road at the curves, travels rough pavement with incredible smoothness, obeys the four-wheel brakes instantly—yet with no discomfort to passengers. And provides a quality of pick-up, flexibility and fast flashing action that we urge you most earnestly to investigate.

ALSO DODGE BROTHERS STANDARD SIX $895

Greater beauty, comfort and convenience with speed, get-away, smoothness and dependability more remarkable than ever. Four fashionable body styles fully equipped.

SMITH RALLY TO BE AT ST. PAUL NEXT THURSDAY

AUTOMOBILE PARADE, PUBLIC RECEPTION AT ARMORY, THEN TOUR OF ST. PAUL

St. Paul, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Plans for Governor Alfred E. Smith's visit to Minnesota next Thursday were completed today and the stage was set for the biggest democratic rally ever held in the state.

The democratic presidential candidate will arrive in Minneapolis at 5:30 A. M. over the Northern Pacific railway from Fargo but Smith and his party will remain in their cars until 10 A. M. when they will be escorted to the Nicollet hotel.

At 10:45 A. M. the New York governor will receive Twin City newspapermen at his hotel after which he will lunch privately.

At 1:30 P. M. an automobile parade will be formed at the hotel and will proceed to the steps of the Kenwood Armory where Smith will be the center of a public reception.

During the middle of the afternoon the entire party will be escorted through the hearts of the two cities to the Hotel Lowry in St. Paul. The presidential party will dine on the roof bungalow of the hotel after which Smith will rest until 8 P. M., the hour set for his only address of the day at the St. Paul auditorium.

Following the address, which will be broadcast over the country in a national radio hook-up, the governor's party will be returned to the hotel and will leave for Milwaukee at 10 A. M. the following day.

Meanwhile Governor Theodore Christianson, candidate for re-election on the republican ticket, prepared to speak at the annual Dairy Day's celebration at New Richland today, where Senator Henrik Shipstead spoke to 5,000 persons late yesterday.

Shipstead, also candidate for re-election on the farmer-labor ticket, discussed farm relief and tariff questions and charged the republican administration with having failed to keep the 1920 and 1924 platform pledges on farm relief.

NOT THAT AT ALL

"My dear sir," said the specialist, after a careful examination, "what you need is plenty of exercise. In a case like yours there is nothing better than the motor. It will—"

"But, doctor," interrupted the patient, with a hopeless gesture, "I can't afford one!"

"Didn't tell you to!" snapped the specialist. "I mean to dodge 'em!"—Weekly Scotsman.

No Middle Course

It seems that one chap rushed up to another one more or less excitedly and cried out, "Binks the lawyer is dead! They found him lying on his back!"

"Binks?" queried the other calmly. "It can't be the same man. If it was Binks he'd be lying on either one side or the other."—Boston Beanpot.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

September 21 1903

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Peterson were made happy by the arrival of a bouncing boy at their home this morning, which naturally impelled the father to want to come around with some good cigars. Mother and child are doing nicely.

John Gilmer has rented the old barn back of the Gardner block and will besides dealing in horses, run a small livery.

On Monday evening there was quite a gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Budd, on Main street, the event being the celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mr. Budd. A very pleasant evening was spent. Refreshments were served.

Alderman Archie Purdy left this afternoon for Ottawa, Canada, where he has been called on account of the serious illness of his brother, Joseph Purdy.

Dr. J. L. Camp returned this morning from an extended eastern trip.

There was an interesting meeting of Pleasant Grove Homestead No. 1059 at which Mrs. Amanda Johnson became a member. The correspondent's report showed a good increase in membership. Chairs were ordered for the hall. Something interesting is planned for every meeting in the future. Refreshments were served and everyone had a good time.

The Swedish Baptist church temporarily shelters several classes of the Sixth street school until the high school is completed.

LEGION AUXILIARY BAND BENEFIT

Ladies in Midst of a Spirited Drive Selling Tickets to Show

BENEFIT AT LYCEUM

To Be Given Next Monday and Tuesday, 1,000 Ticket Sale is Goal

The ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary Band are in the midst of a last spirited drive to sell tickets to their benefit movie at the Lyceum next Monday and Tuesday nights. The ladies have set their goal at one thousand tickets and are bending every effort to make that goal a reality. As they get no credit for the tickets sold at the box office they are particularly anxious to sell as many tickets as possible at the present time.

Besides the feature picture, Billie Dove in "The Night Watch," a burlesque on the "Sextet from Lucia di Lammermoor" will be sung by the ladies of the Brainerd Ladies' Choral club and eight of Brainerd's popular male singers. At the present time attics are being ransacked and closets cleaned out in an attempt to get suitable costumes for this big farce production.

The band played at a dance at Staples recently and they are scheduled to furnish the music for a dance at the Crosby Armory next Friday evening.

The band intends to advertise Minnesota at the American Legion National convention for which they will entrain on October 4th. The trip to San Antonio, Texas, will be costly and the ladies are eager to raise enough money for the long journey.

Make Money From Pests

The rabbits of Australia—descendants of British stock—are hated because they eat the grass upon which stock depend for food. Millions are killed in Australia every year, and their skins furnish a large revenue which goes some way toward neutralizing their sins.

Lost Enjoyment

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1928

THE NEXT PRESIDENT

THE other day we picked up a copy of the Youth's Companion, issue of September, and were surprised to see the changes wrought in its appearance. It was larger than the Youth's Companion we knew as a boy. It had a cover in colors and in beauty of appearance, in picture and story, it held its own in competition with other magazines for young people.

The mere fact that one can now buy the magazine at a newsstand indicated that it is making a wide appeal.

We examined an illustrated story entitled "A Close Up of the Next President" and found it a most interesting article. A note by the editor entitled, "The Next President," gave a short resume of the two foremost candidates for the presidency and we beg to quote:

"With the election of November 6 of the thirtieth President of the United States, the successor to Calvin Coolidge of Plymouth Notch, will come the close of one of the most interesting political campaigns in our history.

"Great interest has been aroused, particularly among those young men and women who are to cast their first votes for President this year. They are weighing the platforms, which are the promises of the parties. They are considering the issues, as put forth by the orators and publicists. But above all they are seeking to know something of the four men, the Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates, something of their backgrounds, their history, their ideas, their equipment for the biggest job in America.

"Two candidates for President of the United States more widely different than Herbert Clark Hoover and Alfred Emanuel Smith could scarcely have been chosen, even if the search for contrasts had been deliberately planned.

"Herbert Hoover, nominated at Kansas City by the Republican party, was born in the little town of West Branch, Iowa; even before he was thirteen years old his travels started, and his professional work—engineering, mining, metallurgy—has taken him into the far places of the world.

"Alfred Smith, serving his fourth two-year term as Governor of New York State, was born in the shadow of Brooklyn Bridge; his life has been spent within a radius of a night's easy train-ride of that place.

"Hoover was born and has continued in the faith of the Society of Friends—the Quakers. Smith was born and has continued a member of the Roman Catholic Church. Precedents have been shattered in the nominations of the two major parties.

"For the first time a Quaker, for the first time a Catholic, have been chosen to head their party tickets. For the first time a man in whose veins flows the blood of the original American Indians has been nominated to be Vice-Presidential candidate—United States Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, whose grandmother was of the Kaw tribe. For the first time a Southerner has been nominated by the Democrats to be the running mate of a Northerner—United States Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.

"Whatever may happen in this campaign, the American people may rest assured of one thing. So far as the nominees are concerned, it will be fought on its merits, on the issues. The appeal will be to the hearts and heads and consciences of the people, rather than to their passions.

There will be no descending to personal abuse by either Herbert Hoover or Al Smith. Both are sportsmen. Both have worked too hard not to know that personal abuse is useless and worse than useless."

THE ISSUE OF WATERWAYS

IN no point of difference between Mr. Hoover and his opponent has there been a more striking example of Mr. Hoover's larger vision and Governor Smith's essential provincialism than in that concerning their respective stands on the issue of a waterway connecting the Atlantic with the Great Lakes, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

As chairman of the commission appointed by President Coolidge to study the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence canal project and to report on the advisability of its development in co-operation with Canada, Mr. Hoover is committed in principle to that plan.

On the other hand, Governor Smith has favored the so-called "all-American" plan which would combine the Erie canal in the east-and-west shipping artery. Naturally, the state of New York has been inclined to favor the development by the federal government of the Erie waterway, which has already cost that state very dearly without having yielded any compensation in the way of economic advantage or future promise.

Many Americans who, in point of theory, would probably favor development of the Erie route, if practicable, nevertheless find that the matter of practicability commends the St. Lawrence route, as most of the leading engineers have agreed.

YOM KIPPUR

JEWRY throughout the world is preparing to celebrate Yom Kippur, one of the most solemn of Hebrew religious ceremonies. It is the Day of Atonement.

Observance of the holy day starts at sundown next Sunday and will continue for 24 hours, and will be marked by fasting and prayers. It is regarded as the day when man stands before his Maker in repentance for his transgressions of the past year.

The High Priest in the days of ancient Israel offered special sacrifices in the Temple of Jerusalem to atone for the sins of the entire people.

Brainerd men, women and children of the faith observe the day in the synagogues of Duluth and the Twin Cities.

Jews make the utmost sacrifices of time, money, energy and efforts to get to these places of worship. If Jewish consciousness is ever stimulated or expressed it is on that day. In many ways the day also becomes one of joyous family reunions.

TWENTY-FOUR ringneck pheasants were released in the Little Falls game refuge south of that city last week by the state game and fish department. Twenty-four of the birds were also taken to Swanville for release in the refuge there. Another group was placed at Lake Alexander this month.

BILLY RANIERI RETURNS FROM THE DEAD

Ten-year-old Billy Ranieri, kidnaped in Chicago two weeks ago and generally believed to have been killed by the men who demanded $60,000 of his father, Frank Ranieri, has returned home. The case, however, remains enveloped in mystery. Upper left, the boy in the arms of his father, whose secretiveness and strange conduct baffled police throughout the search. Hungry from his long walk after being pput out of kidnapers' auto, Billy was happy to get a lunch at home (upper right). Besides the hundreds of playmates, relatives and neighbors who welcomed Billy back home was his dog (lower left). Lower right, Billy is pictured with his overjoyed mother (right) and his grandmother.

Old Southern City

Capt. John Smith bought from the Indians in 1609 a site near Richmond, Va., on which he founded a settlement he called "None Such." Fort Charles was built in the vicinity in 1645. By grants of 1675 and 1687 Col. William Byrd obtained possession of a tract including the site of Richmond, and in 1733 his son, Col. Evelyn Byrd, laid out the town. Richmond was incorporated in 1742.

To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just take a teaspoonful of Tanlac before meals.

Mr. Edward D. Lavan, of 300 E. Broadway, Waukesha, Wis., says: "My stomach was always out of order, I was nervous and had lost considerable weight. Tanlac surely put me in good condition. Now I can eat anything and have gained 38 lbs."

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. Old Southern City

Capt. John Smith bought from the Indians in 1609 a site near Richmond, Va., on which he founded a settlement he called "None Such." Fort Charles was built in the vicinity in 1645. By grants of 1675 and 1687 Col. William Byrd obtained possession of a tract including the site of Richmond, and in 1733 his son, Col. Evelyn Byrd, laid out the town. Richmond was incorporated in 1742.

Are You Run Down, Weak, Nervous?

To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just take a teaspoonful of Tanlac before meals.

Mr. Edward D. Lavan, of 300 E. Broadway, Waukesha, Wis., says: "My stomach was always out of order, I was nervous and had lost considerable weight. Tanlac surely put me in good condition. Now I can eat anything and have gained 38 lbs."

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist. Your money back if it doesn't help.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS CONFIDENTLY REACH FOR PENNANT

HAVE EVEN BREAK WITH N. Y. GIANTS

TWO CLUBS NOW HAVE EACH 9 MORE GAMES TO PLAY

CARDINALS' LEAD OF TWO FULL GAMES LOOKS LARGER EVERY DAY

New York, Sept. 21. — (UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals were cheerfully confident today of coasting through to another national league championship, after their even break with the New York Giants at the Polo grounds.

The two clubs each have but nine more games to play, and the Cardinals' lead of two full games looks larger every day. With the exception of two more games with New York, one on Saturday and one to wind up the season on September 30, the Cards will have Brooklyn and Boston as opponents, while the Giants are playing the Cubs and the Reds, all of which favors Bill McKechnie's club.

On the attack, the Cardinals look like a championship ball club especially under circumstances such as yesterday's when George Harper was delivering no fewer than three home runs in a single game and Frisch, High and Hafey were pounding the ball like demons.

Defensively, however, the league leaders leave something to be desired, giving the impression of being a tired lot of ball players. Errors of commission and omission paved the way for their defeat by the Giants in the second game of the spectacular double-header just when it seemed that the pennant hopes of John J. McGraw had been crushed for good and all.

The Giants are far from being a beaten ball club. They may find the handicap of two games in nine too much to make up, but is obvious that they will be in there fighting from the first pitch to the last.

Both Giants and Cardinals have a welcome open date today, after which they will resume hostilities as the Polo grounds. Meanwhile, the Chicago Cubs, who are three and one-half games behind the league leaders with ten more games to play, have a chance to gain half a notch this afternoon by defeating the Brooklyn Robins.

BRONKO NAGURSKI TO FILL HERB JOESTING SHOES

TEARS UP THE SECOND STRING LINE THURSDAY

THE POWERFUL, BRUISING, FAST BRONKO PLOWS THROUGH THE LINE

DRAGS TACKLERS AFTER HIM LIKE BOYS ON A TOBOGGAN

Bronko Nagurski, erstwhile tackle from Internationals Falls, stepped into Joesting's boots during the Gopher practice yesterday and tore up the second string line in a fashion dear to behold.

The powerful, bruising, fast Bronko plowed through the line dragging tacklers after him like boys on a toboggan. He ripped and charged and plunged ahead so nearly like the Owatonna Thunderbolt that the second string must have felt the immortal Joesting was back in harness.

Nagurski played fullback while in high school and when he reported to Dr. Clarence Spears at Minnesota he asked for a balltoting job.

Spears explained that it was linemen he needed but promised Nagurski that as soon as his 200 pounds could be spared from the forward wall he would be given an opportunity in the backfield.

Bronko was the lad who stopped the great Christie Flannagan of Notre Dame last year. Perhaps opposition teams will need two Flannagans to stop Nagurski this year.

CHOICE OF MUNICIPAL FIELD OR SOUTH SIXTH TO PLAY ON UNDETERMINED

WET CONDITIONS OF REGULAR FIELD MAY PREVENT PLAY THERE

The wet condition of the Brainerd municipal field today may prevent the playing of the opening football game of the season between Brainerd and Milaca at the regular field tomorrow, but the game will go ahead as scheduled, it was announced today.

A meeting will be held tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock to determine whether the field can be used for the game. If it cannot, the game will be played at the old Brainerd mining property on South Sixth street.

In any event, the game will start at 3 o'clock.

Public announcement will likely be made by placard tomorrow regarding where the game will be played.

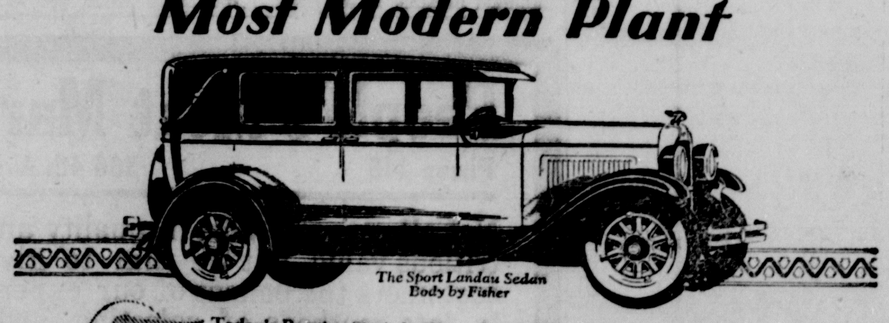

The Brainerd high school squad went through its last scrimmage before the game this afternoon. Tomorrow morning a chalk talk and fundamentals will be stressed by Coach Kasch.

The local team will be somewhat handicapped in its first game by the fact that wet weather has prevented the team from getting in sufficient practice for the early season start.

Ames of Little Falls will officiate.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS CONFIDENTLY REACH FOR PENNANT

HAVE EVEN BREAK WITH N. Y. GIANTS

TWO CLUBS NOW HAVE EACH 9 MORE GAMES TO PLAY

New York, Sept. 21. — (U.P.)—The St. Louis Cardinals were cheerfully confident today of coasting through to another national league championship, after their even break with the New York Giants at the Polo grounds.

The two clubs each have but nine more games to play, and the Cardinals' lead of two full games looks larger every day. With the exception of two more games with New York, one on Saturday and one to wind up the season on September 30, the Cards will have Brooklyn and Boston as opponents, while the Giants are playing the Cubs and the Reds, all of which favors Bill McKechnie's club.

On the attack, the Cardinals look like a championship ball club especially under circumstances such as yesterday's when George Harper was delivering no fewer than three home runs in a single game and Frisch, High and Hafey were pounding the ball like demons.

Defensively, however, the league leaders leave something to be desired, giving the impression of being a tired lot of ball players. Errors of commission and omission paved the way for their defeat by the Giants in the second game of the spectacular double-header just when it seemed that the pennant hopes of John J. McGraw had been crushed for good and all.

The Giants are far from being a beaten ball club. They may find the handicap of two games in nine too much to make up, but is obvious that they will be in there fighting from the first pitch to the last.

Both Giants and Cardinals have a welcome open date today, after which they will resume hostilities as the Polo grounds. Meanwhile, the Chicago Cubs, who are three and one-half games behind the league leaders with ten more games to play, have a chance to gain half a notch this afternoon by defeating the Brooklyn Robins.

BRONKO NAGURSKI TO FILL HERB JOESTING SHOES

TEARS UP THE SECOND STRING LINE THURSDAY

THE POWERFUL, BRUISING, FAST BRONKO PLOWS THROUGH THE LINE

DRAGS TACKLERS AFTER HIM LIKE BOYS ON A TOBOGGAN

Bronko Nagurski, erstwhile tackle from Internationals Falls, stepped into Joesting's boots during the Gopher practice yesterday and tore up the second string line in a fashion dear to behold.

The powerful, bruising, fast Bronko plowed through the line dragging tacklers after him like boys on a toboggan. He ripped and charged and plunged ahead so nearly like the Owatonna Thunderbolt that the second string must have felt the immortal Joesting was back in harness.

Nagurski played fullback while in high school and when he reported to Dr. Clarence Spears at Minnesota he asked for a balltoting job.

Spears explained that it was linemen he needed but promised Nagurski that as soon as his 200 pounds could be spared from the forward wall he would be given an opportunity in the backfield.

Bronko was the lad who stopped the great Christie Flannagan of Notre Dame last year. Perhaps opposition teams will need two Flannagans to stop Nagurski this year.

CHOICE OF MUNICIPAL FIELD OR SOUTH SIXTH TO PLAY ON UNDETERMINED

WET CONDITIONS OF REGULAR FIELD MAY PREVENT PLAY THERE

The wet condition of the Brainerd municipal field today may prevent the playing of the opening football game of the season between Brainerd and Milaca at the regular field tomorrow, but the game will go ahead as scheduled, it was announced today.

A meeting will be held tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock to determine whether the field can be used for the game. If it cannot, the game will be played at the old Brainerd mining property on South Sixth street.

In any event, the game will start at 3 o'clock.

Public announcement will likely be made by placard tomorrow regarding where the game will be played.

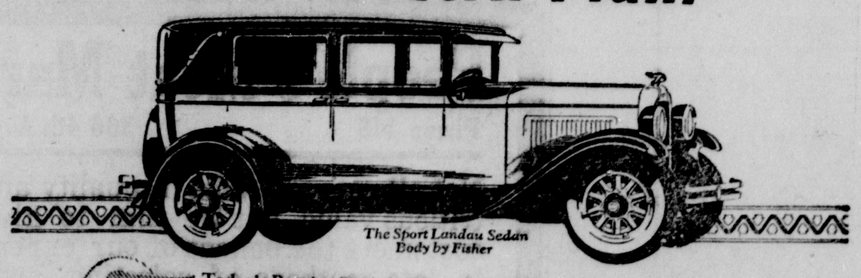

The Brainerd high school squad went through its last scrimmage before the game this afternoon. Tomorrow morning a chalk talk and fundamentals will be stressed by Coach Kasch.

The local team will be somewhat handicapped in its first game by the fact that wet weather has prevented the team from getting in sufficient practice for the early season start.

Ames of Little Falls will officiate.

"SCARFACE AL" CAPONE SHOOTS SELF ACCIDENTALLY

WOUNDED IN RIGHT AND LEFT LEGS AND IN THE GROIN

Chicago, Sept. 21. — (U.P.)—"Scarface Al" Capone, ruler of Chicago's gangland, has been shot, but not by the gangland which months ago decreed his death.

The ganglord, whose every move is guarded by no less than twelve of the most watchful gunmen ever assembled, shot himself, accidentally, according to reports today.

According to the current story, Capone shot himself last Saturday morning after he and Johnny Patton, familiarly known as the "boy mayor of Burnham," had completed a round of golf on the Burnham course.

It seems Capone had varied from his usual habit of going about unarmed, and had carried a .45 calibre revolver. The gun was discharged accidentally as he stepped into Patton's car.

Patton rushed his friend to St. Margaret's hospital. Capone was registered under the name of "Mr. Geary" and no one was the wiser until the presence of fifteen dour-faced individuals about Capone's room aroused certain suspicion.

Last night it became definitely known "Mr. Geary" was Alphonse Capone.

Newspapermen besieged the front entrance—but while hospital attaches were explaining that "Mr. Geary" did not wish to be disturbed, "Scarface Al" and his bodyguard made an exit through a rear entrance and returned to their hotel in Chicago.

As near as can be learned, the gangster chieftain is not in serious condition, and will recover.

Nash's HERMETIC Toasting Process

Hermes—(from which the word Hermetic derives). Herald messenger of the Gods, God of Science and Invention.
Webster's New International Dictionary

A great need is the cause of every great achievement.
The demand for a uniformly roasted coffee gave birth to mechanical coffee roasting.
The necessity for retaining coffee flavor after roasting created the air-tight tin container.

This method of flavor protection, however, ignored the most vital factor in flavor development—the prevention of flavor escape during the roasting process. Roasting, the only known means of developing coffee flavor prior to this discovery, has permitted the escape or "roasting out" of a valuable percentage of the true coffee flavor during the process.

And now, Nash's Hermetic Toasting brings to coffee lovers a new taste thrill, a keener flavor delight, plus an actual saving in the amount of coffee needed per cup, because it retains in the toasted coffee more of the rich, piquant, true flavor heretofore largely evaporated in the ordinary roasting process. Hermetic Toasting is a Nash secret process, developed exclusively by the Nash Coffee Company.

When you drink your morning cup of Nash's Delicious Coffee you will find a mellow goodness beyond belief,—smooth as velvet, rich as chocolate—a cup of coffee such as you have always longed for.

Just try this wonderful coffee—instantly you will be conscious of a startling new flavor experience, which will prove more clearly than a thousand words the truth of these statements.

BODY OF A. KITTELSON LOCATED THIS MORNING

Word Received Here at Noon Today of Recovery of Drowned Brainerd Man

BODY BEING RETURNED

Eighteen Searchers Assist in Finding Body of Duck Hunter in Pistol Lake

The body of Arthur Kittelson, Brainerd man, who was drowned in Pistol lake Monday morning, was recovered from the lake this morning, according to a telephone message received here at noon.

The body is being returned by truck this afternoon, the message stated.

Eighteen men, the majority from Brainerd, assisted today in locating the body which was found about 200 feet from shore.

Arthur Kittelson was drowned when the duck boat in which he and Curtis Neue were attempting to reach shore swamped and overturned. Neue swam his way through the heavy waves to shore, believing Kittelson was behind him.

Kittelson is believed to have sunk when he was thrown into the water when the boat overturned. The weight of his clothing and hunting equipment carried on him handicapped him from swimming.

INTERVIEW W. P. McFAIL

Aero Digest Prints Column Story of Young Aviator Well Known Here

The Aero Digest in this month's issue devotes a column of its magazine space to an interview with W. P. McFail, of Fargo, N. D., aviator who has made many friends in Brainerd through his various flights here.

Accompanied by the picture of Mr. McFail, the Digest has the following to say regarding this young aviator:

Hasn't he got a kind face? He looks like an earnest young evangelist just begging the rough-necks on the back benches to come right up front and kneel down at the mourners' bench and have a good cry. He's Pilot W. P. McFail of Fargo, N. D., and shoves the Fairchild planes from Fargo to Minneapolis for the Mid-Plane Sales and Transit Co., who have that run.

I met McFail at Fargo last month, when I flew out there and tagged along back to Detroit with the National Air Tour, just to help the boys in spiritual matters. I flew the B. F. Goodrich Company's new Fairchild, with my old pal, Henry Wacker, the demon tire salesman of Akron. And what a time we had—I'll get around to it in another place. But now I must tell you about McFail. Back in 1923 he was doing wing-walking down in Texas, a state made famous by Texas Guinan. Byron Good and M. M. Merrill were the bold pilots who were advancing aviation by taking wing-walkers up to a height where they could break their necks more completely than they could by tripping over chairs in the Statler. And the bird they took up was this McFail. In six months of that work he developed a grip so powerful that he could take two strange wildcats in either hand and make them purr at each other. The only thing that could have jarred that boy loose from a strut was an explosion—and not an ordinary explosion, either. At Wilson Oklahoma, in 1923, he finally got jarred loose from wing-walking, and decided that seats were put in airplanes for people to sit in, and that wings weren't designed originally to go for a stroll on. The jar came like this: He was standing on the top wing, with his feet in the loops. Merrill was flying the ship at a fairly low altitude and had dived to get up speed for a loop, when the motor quit cold. As McFail scrambled down into the cockpit, it occurred to him that if the motor had quit when the plane was on top of the loop, and with him hanging by his toes, that he would have been in a terribly embarrassing position, even allowing that the toes held, which, with what he knew of his toes, he couldn't allow. Before the ship had even landed, another wing-walker had been cured, absolutely, and had decide to become a pilot. Now he sits in the Fairchild and looks calmly through a flock of glass at the passing scenery.

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgelow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JANET WILDE is the young and pretty daughter of Fenimore Wilde, one of Broadway's favorite actors. His son, Frank, is an idler, and like his father, a spendthrift. The girl has a hard time mothering them both. On the eve of a great opening night for her father, Janet accepts the proposal of Gordon Pryor, a young but impecunious actor. In a restaurant she meets a young musician, Leonard Quigg, who attracts her. Janet's father drops dead after a brilliant performance, leaving her and her brother almost penniless. Gordon Pryor breaks his engagement and Janet obtains the position of confidential secretary to John Montague, theatrical impresario. David Churchill, a brilliant young doctor, secretly in love with Janet, offers to help her in time of need. At the same time her employer offers to settle a large sum of money on her and make her a star—with provisions. She sneers at his "generosity," and rebuffs him. Later she patches up a quarrel with Leonard Quigg, and he introduces her to his uncle, Chester Quigg, a well-established artist. At the artist's studio she meets little Alice Quigg, his precocious and charming twelve-year-old daughter.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIX.

DURING tea, several friends of Chester Quigg dropped in—most of them men. Janet was secretly amused to see how perfectly Alice played the role of hostess.

Afterwards, Janet insisted on helping her wash the teacups in the kitchen. The conversation turned on Leonard.

"He's a dear," his little cousin told Janet. "Do you know why he's broke?"

"No," Janet admitted. "Why?"

"Because of a friend of his—Emil Webb," Alice confided. "I don't like Emil. Hardly anyone does like him, except Leonard, who says he isn't understood. Emil is a little older than Leonard, and about two months ago Daddy told me that Emil had been indiscreet. That's Daddy's way of saying that he had married.

"Anyway, Emil writes, only he never sells anything, and he has a cottage up in Vermont, and he hasn't any money to live on while he writes. So Leonard, who had just had some luck and sold a song which the gramaphone people had made into records, sent all his money to Emil."

"That was nice of him," Janet agreed. "Hasn't he any regular job?"

"Quiggs rarely have regular jobs," Alice observed, as she dried a teacup. "It isn't in their blood, Daddy says. Leonard has to play in an orchestra sometimes, but he hates it. He's a very peculiar young man. I forgot to thank you," she went on suddenly. "You're one of the few people who haven't looked at me and my long hair and said something about 'Alice in Wonderland.' It was very refreshing of you."

"I suppose everyone does say that," Janet conceded. "And you must get tired of it."

"You understand very well," Alice answered. "I suppose you understand that Leonard is in love with you?"

"What makes you think that?" Janet asked, as she avoided the direct gaze of her questioner.

"He saw you one day at lunch in a restaurant," Alice explained, "and the man with you introduced you. He came over here that afternoon with Mary Ann, and he talked about nothing else."

Later, walking home with Leonard, Janet decided that it was not fair to him to let him imagine that she could ever care for him.

"We have a firm agreement, haven't we?" she said, as she tugged at the Critic's leash.

"Oh yes!" he smiled. "I know it all by heart. You're quite willing to see me, as long as I don't grow sentimental. You don't want it in a written agreement, do you? Sworn to before a Notary Public or anything?"

"No," Janet laughed. "But I like to be direct and above board. Incidentally," she went on to change the subject, "I am crazy about your little cousin, and I have fallen in love with your uncle."

"That won't do you any good," he retorted. "Chester Quigg is one of the few faithful men I know. He really adored and worshipped his wife—couldn't see any other woman—and under all his eccentricities and madnesses, that remains. He still thinks of her, and nobody else exists."

"That's very nice in these days," Janet admitted. "And how strange for an artist like that!"

"Have you got it in for artists?" Leonard asked her.

"Half of me," Janet replied. "I don't know which half is stronger. I think I shall probably marry a real estate agent and settle down in a Long Island suburb."

"Won't that be nice!" he retorted. "And every evening as you sit darning socks you can listen to the radio. I'll play to you over it. Incidentally, I am playing over the radio tonight. Pity you haven't got one, so you could listen in! I would play so much better if I knew you were in my audience."

Janet sent him away at her doorstep and spent the rest of the day and all the evening with a book. She went to bed early, but she could not sleep. She realized that she was beginning to like Leonard Quigg too much for her peace of mind. And she was not going to fall in love again—certainly not with an artist of any kind! Besides, had not Alice summed up the whole situation in stating that an artist always needed a "soother"? Janet was tired of soothing—and if ever she fell in love again she would see to it that she was the one to be soothed!

The following afternoon was a busy one at the Montague offices, and Montague still had a mass of matters to attend to when most people had finished dinner.

"I am tired and nervous," he complained, as he touched the button that disclosed his private bar. "If I don't have a few drinks, Miss Wilde, I shall go crazy. I have to clear up several things tonight, so you had better have dinner with me."

Believing that he would never again make the mistake that had been his on that other evening a few weeks before, Janet consented. All the same, she was a little alarmed as she noticed the number of whiskies that he seemed to consider necessary for his nerves.

However, at half-past eight, when she sat down to dinner with him in the Colonial dining-room of his apartment, Janet did not realize that John Montague had rather overstepped the mark. He sat for the most part in silence during the meal, now and again signing to Ito to refill his glass.

And afterwards, in the Oriental room, for a long time, John Montague dictated to Janet—his reactions on a play, and many instructions for several shows that he had out on the road.

It was after eleven when he had finished. He poured himself out a highball, and looked whimsically at Janet.

"What a lucky fellow John Montague is!" he rasped. "He has nothing to do but spend his money. Work—well, of course, he leaves everything to other people!"

"Is that what they say of you?" Janet smiled, as she put her typewriter to bed.

"Of course, they do!" he returned bitterly. "Lucky John Montague! He must be so happy—just because he's so successful."

"Well, you are successful, and you have a very interesting career," Janet reminded him as she rose from her chair.

"And John Montague can have everything that he wants," he went on ignoring her last remark. "Lucky fellow! If he wants a new car, he only has to order it. If he wants a European trip, he is free to come and go—lucky, isn't he? And girls! Most of them would jump at him—because he's so fascinating! Of course, not because of what he could give them," he went on with bitter irony in his voice. "The women are crazy about him, because he's so young and good-looking." He drained his glass.

Janet looked at him a little apprehensively. She had rarely heard him in quite so bitter a mood.

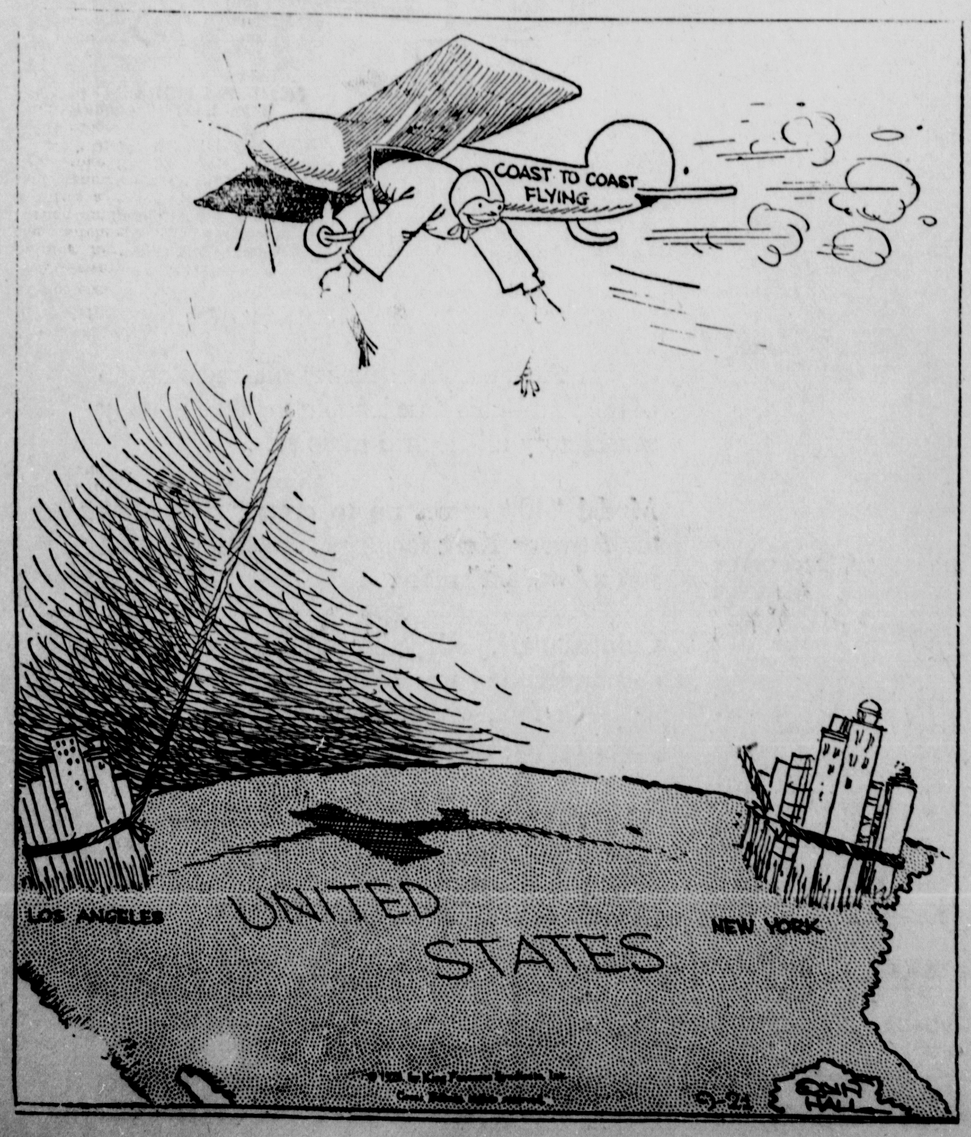

"And I can't have a darned thing I want!" he appealed to her. "Can I? Janet, you beautiful creature!" He looked at her, and laughed raspingly. "You know darned well that I want you, Janet, and I don't want anything else—and yet you look at me as though you liked me as well as the rush hour in the subway. Don't you?"

"I thought that was a subject that was not to be mentioned," Janet began, when, without warning, John Montague caught her almost roughly in his arms and kissed her.
